AIDPH VIRTUAL
SUMMER COLLOQUIUM
AUGUST 4 & 5, 2020

WELCOME

We welcome each of you to the first Virtual Mini-Colloquium sponsored by the American Institute of Dental Public Health (AIDPH). Thank you for joining us in Reimagining Dental Public Health Through Resiliency and Community. This unique meeting promotes public health scholarship to dental public health practitioners, educators, students, and advocates. Our colloquia are enriching experiences that galvanize participants to build stronger, healthier communities. Since its inception in 2015, AIDPH has worked to build equity-oriented leaders. Our programs and activities center on building both community and capacity as we remain committed to fostering professional excellence and advancing innovation in the education and practice of dental public health. As we explore ways to strengthen our community, we are committed to designing virtual events that will maximize engagement. Employing an interactive conferencing framework specifically designed to engage, we hope this colloquium is an immersive learning experience.

Our colloquia promote public health scholarship to dental public health practitioners, academics, educators, advanced education students, dental public health residents, and advocates. Over the next two days, we hope you brainstorm empowering and creative solutions while you reimagine how dental public health can be shaped moving forward. What will it take to increase access to care, eliminate barriers to achieving health, and promote inclusive systems that drive optimal oral health? The journey to answering these questions will hopefully begin now. Thank you for contributing to this conversation.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank each of you for attending the Summer Colloquium and for sharing your expertise with us. You, as dental public health practitioners, educators and students, have the vision, the knowledge, and the experience to help us pave our way into the future. You are truly our greatest asset today and tomorrow, and we could not accomplish what we do without your support and leadership.

Sincerely,

Annaliese Cothron, AIDPH Executive Director

David P. Cappelli, Chair, AIDPH Board of Directors

Title: Exploring Cross-Cutting Inequity and Structural Gaps in the Oral Health Care System (1.5 CEU) 10am CT-11:30am CT

Session Description:

Dr. Sean Boynes and Dr. Eleanor Fleming will set the environment for cross-cutting inequity in oral and structural gaps within our overlapping health sectors. The presenters will challenge participants to think critically about how to address systemic oral health inequity through individual and institutional growth. As a community, we recognize the need to reduce silos that perpetuate inequity and stifle whole-person health. How do we reimagine the dental public health infrastructure to wholly support the social determinants of health? After presentations, attendees will release into small group breakout sessions with facilitators. A guided discussion session will allow opportunities to reflect and respond to the challenges proffered within the presentations.

By the end of this session, attendees will be able to:

1. Identify cross-cutting inequities in oral health that systemically perpetuate disparate health outcomes.
2. Evaluate overlapping systems of health care delivery for structural gaps.
3. Examine opportunities for oral health to integrate into whole-person health.
4. Brainstorm solutions for removing barriers to optimal oral health.

AUGUST 4th: CONFERENCE DETAILS

12:00 pm - 12:45 pm CT

PLENARY SPEAKER: ABDUL EL-SAYED

Dr. Abdul El-Sayed is a physician, epidemiologist, public health expert, and progressive activist. He is the Chair at Southpaw Michigan and a Contributor at CNN. He is the author of “Healing Politics”, which diagnoses our country’s epidemic of insecurity and the empathy politics we will need to treat it, as well as “Medicare for All: A Citizen’s Guide”.

Title: Understanding the Insecurity Epidemic (.75 CEUs) 12:00– 12:45pm CT

Course Description: The healthcare policy shortfalls exposed by COVID-19 are profound and far-reaching. Rebuilding an inclusive and supportive public health infrastructure designed to meet the varying needs of the U.S. population is critical to our progress. In this plenary, Dr. Abdul El-Sayed will discuss America’s “insecurity epidemic” and the health policies driving chronic disparity. Change driven by empathy policy is the only way forward. Dr. El-Sayed will share ideas to heal this epidemic of insecurity including implementing comprehensive public safety reform, Medicare for All, and access to an inclusive educational infrastructure.

Learning Objectives:

By the end of this session, attendees will be able to:

1. Associate health disparities with the underlying policy drivers.
2. Describe the insecurity epidemic faced in the United States and its impact on oral health.
3. Determine opportunities to create systemic change that supports whole-person health.

Millions of people face barriers to good oral health

And while funding is always a problem, it's far from the only problem. That is why the ADA and its member dentists developed Action for Dental Health, a nationwide, community-based movement to provide care now to those suffering from untreated dental disease, strengthen and expand the public and private safety net, and bring education and disease prevention into the nation's most needy communities.

Dentists are making a difference through the following programs:

Give Kids A Smile

Expand programs that provide screening and treatment for children.

Community Dental Health Coordinators

Connect those in need with community resources and dentists who can provide care.

Emergency Room Referral Programs

Get people out of the emergency room and into the dentist's chair.

Community Water Fluoridation

Lauded by the CDC as "one of 10 great public health achievements of the 20th Century."

Title: Reimagining Dental Public Health Through Resiliency (.75 CEUs) 10:00-10:45 am CT

Session Description: How can we rebuild, reframe, and reimagine optimal oral health through the lens of resiliency? This multi-sector panel will discuss the asset-based elements that facilitate community resiliency and the gaps that can prevent growth. Innovations at the federal, state, and community levels are imperative to improving health outcomes, particularly in marginalized and vulnerable populations. During this interactive panel, participants are encouraged to ask questions in real time via the chat feature.

By the end of this session, attendees will be able to:

1. Understand how different systemic levels of healthcare drive community resiliency.
2. Describe the key stakeholders and their role in building the dental public health infrastructure.
3. Consider opportunities for strategic capacity-building through public-private partnerships to strengthen the resiliency of our oral healthcare system.

SPEAKER BIOSKETCHES

ELEANOR FLEMING, DDS, MPH, PHD Dental Epidemiologist

Dr. Eleanor Fleming is a Diplomate of the American Board of Dental Public Health, and has worked for nine years as a dental epidemiologist with over 20 peer-reviewed publications. A proud graduate of Meharry Medical College, she earned her PhD from Vanderbilt University, her MPH from East Tennessee State University, and her dental public health certificate from Boston University. She served as an officer in the Epidemic Intelligence Service at the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention where she investigated disease outbreaks and was principal investigator on a number of studies. She holds leadership positions in the American Association of Public Health Dentistry and the American Public Health Association. Additionally, she serves on the Board of Directors of local organizations in Middle Tennessee, and in February was awarded a Preservation Award from the African American Heritage Society of Williamson County for her efforts and advocacy to support historical preservation and Black history. She is a passionate champion for social justice with a focus on communities of color and especially the health inequalities that impact them. She believes in lifting as she climbs and regularly mentors students interested in dental and public health careers.

SEAN BOYNES, DMD, MS Vice President, Health Improvement DentaQuest Partnership for Oral Health Advancement

Dr. Sean G. Boynes is a Dentist Anesthesiologist who received his D.M.D. from the University of Pittsburgh and completed a three year residency in anesthesiology from the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center. He currently serves as Vice President, Health Improvement at the DentaQuest Partnership for Oral Health Advancement overseeing national programs and initiatives focused on the integration and coordination of person centered care, developing and implementing value based oral health strategies and operations, and evaluating and testing metrics through meaningful oral health measurement.

A prolific author and speaker, he has been recognized by many organizations for his work in health policy and clinical care, that include: the National Health Service Corps featured him as one of the 40 top clinicians for their 40th Anniversary Celebration, the South Carolina School Nurses Association named him recipient of the Distinguished School Services Award, the National Children's Oral Health Foundation lists him as a Dentist of Distinction, and he was given the President's Award from the National Network for Oral Health Access. Dr. Boynes is dedicated to making care better and providing opportunities to empower individual to expect a system of dependable health.

ABDUL EL-SAYED [CREDENTIALS]

Position, Organization

Dr. Abdul El-Sayed is a physician, epidemiologist, public health expert, and progressive activist. He is the Chair at Southpaw Michigan and a Contributor at CNN. He is the author of “Healing Politics” (Abrams Press, 2020), which diagnoses our country’s epidemic of insecurity and the empathy politics we will need to treat it, as well as “Medicare for All: A Citizen’s Guide” (Oxford University Press, 2021) with Micah Johnson. He hosts “America Dissected,” a podcast by Crooked Media, which goes beyond the headlines to explore what really matters for our health. In 2018, Abdul ran for Governor of Michigan on an unapologetically progressive platform, advocating for universal healthcare, clean water for all, debt-free and tuition-free higher education, a pathway to 100% renewable energy, and to rebuild the barrier between corporations and government. His bid was endorsed by Senator Bernie Sanders, Congresswoman Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez, the Nation, and Current Affairs. And though he earned over 340,000 votes, he finished second of three in the Democratic Primary. Prior, he served as Health Commissioner in the City of Detroit, appointed to rebuild the City’s health department after it was privatized during municipal bankruptcy. He was the youngest health official in a major US city. Responsible for the health and safety of over 670,000 Detroiters, the Detroit Health Department became a state and national leader in public health innovation and environmental justice, in one of the fastest municipal public health turnarounds in American history. He was awarded “Public Official of the Year” by the Michigan League of Conservation Voters and “40 under 40” by Crain’s Detroit Business. As a professor at Columbia University’s Department of Epidemiology, Abdul became an internationally recognized expert in health policy and health inequalities. He was Director of the Columbia University Systems Science Program and Global Research Analytics for Population Health. He has over 100 peer-reviewed publications that have earned over 1200 citations, including a foundational textbook on Systems Science & Population Health (Oxford University Press, 2016). Abdul holds a doctorate in Public Health from Oxford University, where he was a Rhodes Scholar, as well as a medical degree from Columbia University, where he was a Medical Scientist Training Program Fellow and a Soros New Americans Fellow.
